

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## PREFACE

THIS Concordance is the first to appear under the auspices of The Concordance Society, which was organized at Yale University in the Christmas vacation of 1906. The choice of an author was dictated by these considerations: his historical importance; the public interest in him; and the moderate compass of his works, so that the compilation might be effected by few hands in a brief time, and the subvention required by the publishers might not unduly tax the slender resources of the Society. The making of the excerpts was begun, and virtually concluded, in the Christmas vacation of 1907; the quotations, most of which had been alphabetized within the smaller groups by the compilers, were then fully alphabetized by the editor, and the head-words normalized, where it appeared necessary. The next step was to secure a publisher, and to arrange for the details of publication. The copy was forwarded to the publishers in April of the present year.

The readers who excerpted the material were as follows:—

Dr. CHARLES G. OSGOOD, Preceptor in English, Princeton University, Secretary of The Concordance Society.

Dr. ELBERT N. S. THOMPSON, Instructor in Rhetoric, Yale University.

Mr. FREDERIC T. BLANCHARD, Assistant in Rhetoric, Yale University.

Mr. ALFRED A. MAY, University Fellow in English, Yale University.

Miss ERNESTINE L. MILLER, Wellsboro, Pennsylvania.

THE EDITOR.

As none of the readers had had any experience in concordance work, the speed and accuracy displayed were most gratifying.

Those who have participated in the reading of the galley-proofs are the following:—

Professor CURTIS H. PAGE, Columbia University, Treasurer of The Concordance Society.

Professor CHARLES W. HODELL, Woman's College, Baltimore, Member of the Executive Committee of The Concordance Society.

Professor LANE COOPER, Cornell University.

Professor CHAUNCEY B. TINKER, Yale University.

Professor ARTHUR ADAMS, Trinity College, Hartford.

Dr. ELBERT N. S. THOMPSON, as above.

Mr. ALFRED A. MAY, as above.

Miss MARY W. SMYTH, Graduate Student in English, Yale University.

THE EDITOR.

None of the galley-proofs were given out to the readers before June 15, and with one exception all were returned before July 1; what this means in the closing days of a busy academic year, in our climate, no American teacher, at least, will need to be told.

The basis of the Concordance is Gosse's edition of Gray (4 vols., London and New York, 1884): the poetry is contained in Vol. I, but a few variants have been culled from the letters in Vols. II and III. Quotations from the poems which Gosse characterizes as doubtful have been distinguished from the rest by a prefixed dagger. Gosse's order of poems has been followed, except that variants have been placed under the poems to which they belong; this applies also to the List of Poems on pp. ix, x.

The question of normalization was a somewhat difficult one. The orthography of Gray's editions and manuscripts is so capricious and inconsistent that it seemed impracticable to conform the head-words to it in all cases. Should one make the head-word Riseing, for example, as Gray twice spells it? or Redning (Sonnet on the Death of Richard West, line 2)? Should one write Chearful (Elegy 87), or Cheerful (Alliance of Education and Government 66)? Horror (Fatal Sisters 49), or Horrou (Progress of Poesy 93)? Rhymes (Stanzas to Mr. Richard Bentley 9), or Rhimes (Elegy 79)? In such doubtful cases as these, some choice must be made, and consistency required that similar words should be similarly treated. Thus, one could hardly normalize to Horror, and write Warriour as the head-word (of course the spelling of the quotations is kept). Often such a choice will be, or seem, arbitrary; I have given the preference to full forms (Roused, not Rous'd), and to forms generally preferred by scholars, for etymological or other reasons, in America: thus Rime (not Rhime or Rhyme), and endings in -or, not -our, like Gray's Rumor (thus Ardor, Armor, Colors, Flavor, Honor, Horror, Labor, Manor, Parlor, Rigor, Tenor, Vigor, Warrior; Honorable, Neighboring, etc.). Words hyphenated by Gray are so kept, and the second element of such words is entered in its alphabetical place, with a cross-reference to the complete word. In general, cross-references have been freely employed — too freely, some will think — but it seemed desirable to enable every inquirer to find with ease what he sought.

The following words, forty-seven in number, have been omitted, following the precedent of Strong's Concordance to the Bible: a, an, and, are, as, be, but, by, for, from, he, her, him, his, I, in, is, it, me, my, not, O, of, our, out, shall, shalt, she, that, the, thee, their, them, they, thou, thy, to, unto, up, upon, us, was, we, were, with, ye, you; but contracted or quasi-contracted forms of these words, such as are found in don't and 'em, are given. These omissions, again, may seem rather arbitrary, and so indeed they are; but so perhaps would any omissions be, in the light of some needs or expectations.

As to punctuation, quotation-marks have been omitted when only the quotation has been given; otherwise they have been retained. The same principle has been observed with respect to parentheses. Gray's punctuation, like his capitalization, is frequently erratic, but both have been retained.

In the excerpts, it has been difficult in many cases to decide whether to give the immediate context of a word, without particular regard to the construction and sense, or to seek a subject or verb, perchance, in another line. We have inclined toward the latter, but our practice has not been strictly uniform, and perhaps could not be. Suggestions to collaborators will be interpreted with more latitude by one than by another, and when the material has once been collected, an attempt on the part of the editor to secure greater uniformity would involve considerable labor in looking up references, and passing judgment upon each doubtful case. Such are the disadvantages of collaboration in the making of a concordance, but perhaps an ideal uniformity in this respect would hardly be worth the effort it would cost.

Occasionally homonyms, when different parts of speech, have been separated: see, for example, under Art. This has been done only in cases which the editor thought extreme for one reason or another; perhaps it would have been better to distinguish all homonyms, but little practical inconvenience is likely to result where the quotations are so few under each word as here.

The courtesy and consideration shown by Houghton Mifflin Company in the negotiations looking to the publication of this volume have been most gratifying, and augur well for the success of The Concordance Society in a very important respect.

This preface may fitly end with a quotation from an anonymous writer in a recent number of Book News: "No poet can be fully mastered without either dictionary or concordance. You have no grasp on a poet's use of words without one aid or the other."

ALBERT S. COOK.

He eat a fat goose, Ep. Keene 2.

Fatal.

Vocal no more, since Cambria's fatal day, Bard 27.
House . . . From whence one fatal morning issues L. S. 22.

Fate.

Malignant Fate sat by, and smil'd Cat 28.
The Ministers of human fate, Eton 56.
why should they know their fate? Eton 95.
sad refuge from the storms of Fate! P. P. 45.
Beyond the limits of a vulgar fate, P. P. 122.
Secure of Fate, the Poet stood, Bard Lett.<sup>1</sup> 18.
to sudden fate . . . Half of thy heart we consecrate. Bard 97.
As the paths of fate we tread, F. S. 29.
Fate demands a nobler head; F. S. 43.
say, . . . Who the Author of his fate. Odin 54.
linger in the gloomy Walks of Fate: El. Mas. 80.
Some kindred spirit . . . inquire thy fate, El. 96.
to know the fate Impending o'er your son: Ag. 65.
your injur'd shades demand my fate, Ag. 184.
thro' Ages by what Fate confin'd E. G. 38.
For adverse fate the captive chief has hurl'd
Tasso 33.

Nor lofty Carthage struggling with her Fate.
 Or if, alas! it be my Fate
 Oped the dark Veil of Fate.
Fates.
 The different doom our Fates assign.
 When then my Fates
Father.
 Say, father Thames,
 The Father of the powerful spell.
 The bosom of his Father and his God.
 Father, why, why do you gaze so sternly?
Father's.
 Revere his Consort's faith, his Father's fame,
 Her infant image . . . Sits smiling on a father's woe:
Fathers.
 And mitred fathers in long order go:
Faulchion.
 Each her thundering faulchion wield;
Fault.
 Nor you, ye Proud, impute to These the fault,
 Forgive, ye Proud, th' involuntary Fault,
Faults.
 †Buzzing with all their parent Faults;
Favor.
 in the sunshine Of thy full favour;
 I favour her repose.
Favorite.
 A Fav'rite has no friend!
 What favourite has a friend?
 near his fav'rite tree;
Favour, Favourite. See Favor, Favorite.
Fear.
 Disdainful Anger, pallid Fear, never can he fear a vulgar fate,
 Marking . . . Fear to stop,
 For folks in fear are apt to pray
 Nor fear the rocks, nor seek the shore:
 school'd by fear To bow the supple knee,
 check their . . . Hopes with chilling Fear,
 Then he shambls and straddles so oddly — I fear — mariners, though shipwreck'd, fear to land.
 In vain the nations with officious fear Their cymbals tose, Feared.
 Whether she fear'd, or wish'd to be pursued.
Fearful.
 And snatch a fearful joy.
 riveted His eyes in fearful extasy:
Fearless.
 Till full before his fearless eyes
 Fearless in long excursion loves to glide,

Fears.
 Of Horror . . . and thrilling Fears,
 To save thy secret soul from nightly fears,
 Forgive your servant's fears,
 Hence rise my fears.
 My love, my fears for him,
 alas, my fears! Can powers immortal Cease, my doubts, my fears to move,
 but first dismiss your fears;
 Or are our fears th' enthusiast's empty dream,
 Sad with the Fears of Sleep,
Feast.
 he yet may share the feast:
 Yet Nature could not furnish out the feast,
 hasty to renew The hellish Feast,
Feasts.
 Famine at feasts, and thirst amid the stream;
Feather-cinctured.
 Their feather-cinctur'd Chiefs,
Feathered.
 thy magic lulls the feather'd king
Fed.
 Gay hope is theirs by fancy fed,
 With many a foul and midnight murder fed,
Feeble.
 Man's feeble race what Ills await,
 Frisking ply their feeble feet;
 permit me raise My feeble Voice,
Feed.
 genial Juice retains Their Roots to feed,
Feel.
 I feel the gales,
 What others are, to feel,
 Let him feel Before he sees me.
 Can powers immortal feel the force of years?
 With Sense to feel, with Mem'ry
 All angry heaven inflicts, or hell can feel,
 You whose young bosoms feel a nobler flame
Feeling.
 if to some feeling breast
Feels.
 the fire it feels not.
 The Widow feels thee in her aching hip;
Feet.
 The slipp'ry verge her feet beguil'd, glance their many-twinkling feet.
 heap'd his master's feet around,
 Frisking ply their feeble feet;
 low as his feet there flows A vestment
 When Gaddo, at my Feet out-stretch'd, Feign.
 And realis'd the beauties which we feign:

Fell.

Despair, and fell Disease, and ghastly Poverty:

So.

beech, That wreathes its . . . roots so high,
El. 102.

Or chaunticleer so shrill, El. Mas. 19.
So Rumor says. L. S. 73.
So cunning was the Apparatus, L. S. 85.
The powerful pothooks did so move him,
L. S. 86.

And so God save our noble King, L. S. 141.
Where he so soon may — Agr. 165.
no matter What; so 't be strange, Agr. 171.
So Helen look'd, Agr. 194.
So her white neck reclin'd, so was she borne
Agr. 195.

So draw Mankind in vain the vital Airs, E. G. 9.
So fond Instruction on the growing Powers
E. G. 13.

How rude so e'er th' exterior Form E. G. 26.
so was thought somewhat odd; Char. 3.
So Caradoc bore his lance. Caradoc 4.
— and his eyes are so lewd!
C. C. 8.
Then he shamles and straddles so oddly —
C. C. 9.

He drinks — so did Noah; C. C. 28.
— he swears — so do I: C. C. 28.
So York shall taste Shak. 21.
So from our works sublimer fumes shall rise;
Shak. 22.

- So the Master of Queen's Is as like as two beans;
Saïre 15.
 so grinned the brawling fiend, Toph. 1.
 So glittering shows the Thracian Godhead's shield,
Stat. 28.
 So from th' astonish'd stars, Stat. 53.
 So mov'd the Seer, Tasso 23.
 Why does yon Orb, so exquisitely bright,
Prop. 33.
 Father, why, why do you gaze so sternly?
Dante 56.
 †I tell her so in Elegy. Ode 30.
 †So I to you this Trifle give, Ode 53.

Bard 28.
 soft the Zephyr blows,
Bard 71.
 And thus they speak in soft accord Inst. 55.
 Knows his soft ear the trumpet's . . . voice,
Ag. 95.
 But, soft! why do I waste the . . . hours
Ag. 154.
 the soft springs of pity in my heart, Ag. 182.
 ignorance! soft salutary power!
Ign. 9.
 The soft Returns of Gratitude E. G. 34.
 A sigh of soft reflection. Bent. 28.
 With . . . whisper soft She woo's the tardy spring;
Vic. 3.
 Smiles . . . Soft Reflection's hand can trace;
Vic. 30.
 faith sincere, And soft humanity were there.
Clerks 6.
 Here the soft emerald smiles Tasso 67.
 These soft inglorious joys my hours engage;
Prop. 51.
 Whence the soft Strain and ever-melting Verse?
Prop. 2.
 That the soft Subject of my Song I make,
Prop. 14.
 Me from myself the soft Enchantress stole;
Prop. 75.

would have dropp'd, but that her pride restrain'd it? Ag. 11.

Owls would [might, MS.; should, Nich.] have hooted in St. Peter's choir, View 23.
Ere the spring he would return — Song 2.
Yet would the Tyrant Love permit me raise
Prop. 31.

Not Marius' Cimbrian Wreaths would I relate,
Prop. 39.

What would you have? yet wept I not, Dante 57.

Wouldest.

Would'st thou revive the deep Despair, Dante 4.

Wound.

To soften, not to wound my heart. Adv. 44.
He wound with toilsome march his long array.
Bard 12.

Gor'd with many a gaping wound: F. S. 42.
She felt the wound she left behind,
Clerke 8.
who can probe the undiscover'd Wound?
Prop. 92.

†is to tear the closing wound. Rond. 32.

Wove.

The web is wove. Bard 100.

Wrapped.

wrapt in flames, . . . Sinks the fabric of the world. Odin 93.

Wrapt. See Wrapped.

Wreak.

If then he wreak on me his wicked will,
Shak. 13.

Wreath.

The laureate wreath, that Cecil wore Inst. 84.

Wreathed.

Chains . . . Wreath'd in many a golden link:
Hoel 15.

Wreathes.

Beech, That wreathes its old . . . roots so high,
El. 102.

Wreaths.

Not Marius' Cimbrian Wreaths would I relate,
Prop.<sup>3</sup> 39.

Wretch.

Then whirl the wretch from high, Eton 72.
See the Wretch, that long has tost Vic. 45.
and known To many a Wretch Dante 25.

Wrings.

that unutter'd nathless wrings My inmost Heart?
Dante 5.

Wrinkled.

Wrinkled beldams Teach it Ag. 135.

Write.

Of those loose Curls, that Ivory front I write;
Prop.<sup>3</sup> 11.

†I burn to write;

Ode 27.

Wrongs.

benefits . . . As unrequited wrongs. Ag. 76.
now hear My Wrongs, Dante 15.

Wrote.

Wrote on the stone beneath yon aged thorn.
El. Mas. 136.
its will seem'd wrote in lines of blood, Ag. 70.
†cooling breezes I only wrote of; Ode 21.

Wrought.

in fancy's airy colouring wrought Bent. 7.

Yawning.

Down the yawning steep he rode, Odin 3.

Ye, omitted.

Year.

And wake the purple year! Spring 4.
thy rigid lore . . . many a year she bore: Adv. 14.
Richly paint the vernal year: P. P. 90.
Mark the year, and mark the night, Bard 53.
There scatter'd oft, the earliest of the Year,
El. Pem. 117; Mas. 137.
blast the vernal Promise of the Year. E. G. 21.
Yesterday the sullen year Saw . . . whirlwind
fly; Vic. 21.
Who measured out the year, Prop.<sup>3</sup> 38.
†Then for a Moiety of the Year Ode 41.

Years.

Years of havock urge their destined course,
Bard 85.
their years, spelt by th' unletter'd muse, El. 81.

resolution To smuggle a few years, Vicw 3.
vigorous he seem'd in years, Tasso 12.
†Not like yon Dowager deprest with years;
Ch. Cr. 6.

Yell.

long pursues, with fruitless yell, The Father
Odin 11.

Yes.

Yes, we may meet, ungrateful boy, Ag. 140.
Yes, I will be gone, Ag. 165.

Yesterday.

Yesterday the sullen year Saw . . . whirlwind
fly; Vic. 21.
Their raptures . . . No yesterday, nor morrow know; Vic. 26.

Yet.

Yet hark, how thro' the peopled air Spring 23.
A stranger yet to pain! Eton 14.
Yet see how all around 'em wait Eton 55.
Yet, ah! why should they know their fate? Eton 95.
Yet oft before his infant eyes P. P. 118.
Yet when they first were open'd P. P. MS. 118.
Yet shall he mount, P. P. 121.
Yet never can he fear P. P. MS. 122.
they linger yet, Avengers of their native land:
Bard 45.

Yet thou, proud boy, Bard MS. 75.
he yet may share the feast: Bard 79.
Yet awhile my call obey; Odin 73.
Yet . . . these bones from insult to protect
El. 77.

nor yet beside the rill, El. 111.
Yet on his way . . . he prefer'd his case,
L. S. 89.

Yet something he was heard to mutter, L. S. 121.
Yet hop'd, that he might save his bacon: L. S. 126.
Yet hither oft a glance . . . They send Inst. 19.
sweeter yet The . . . voice of gratitude. Inst. 63.
Yet 't would dash his joy To hear Ag. 13.
the spirit of Britannicus Yet walks on earth:
Ag. 15.

when yet a stranger To adoration, Ag. 33.
Nor am I yet to learn how vast the debt Ag. 56.
the idle herd . . . yet will start, Ag. 131.
Yet if your injur'd shades demand my fate,
Ag. 184.

Yet Morning smiles the busy Race to cheer,

yet still to fancy new, Ign. 33.
Why yet does Asia dread a Monarch's nod,
E. G. 59.

while yet he strays Along the . . . vale Clerke 11.
Yet Nature could not furnish out the feast,
Vicw 11.

yet the dread path once trod, Stanza 2.
Nor tempts he yet the plain, Stat.<sup>1</sup> 45.
Nor yet in prospect rose the distant shore;

Tasso 5.
Yet would the Tyrant Love permit me raise

yet if the telling may Beget Dante 6.
That which yet remains . . . I shall unfold,
Dante 18.

- sleep as yet Gave not to know Dante 42.
But yet in low and uncompleted Sounds Dante 44.
yet wept I not, or answer'd Dante 57.
That Day, and yet another, mute we sate, Dante 70.
yet a fourth Day came Dante 72.
†P pokes his head out, yet Ch. Cr. 29.
- Yew-tree's.
Beneath . . . that yew-tree's shade, El. 13.
- Yield.
